

THE BEE

Published every Saturday at 1109 1 Street
orthwest, Washington, D. C.

Entered at the Post Office at Washington
as second class mail matter.

W. CALVIN CHASE, EDITOR.

NEEDS NO SYMPATHY.

The editor of the Bee needs no sympathy. Fair play is all that is asked.

TAKE WARNING SPEAK EASIES!

People who violate the whiskey law need not expect any sympathy when they go before either Judge Mills or Kimball.

THE FREEDMEN'S HOSPITAL

Hon. Hoke Smith is satisfied that Dr. Purvis as been misrepresented and the impression is that no change will be made in the institution. Dr. Purvis has made the hospital what it is today.

(Rev.) P. H. White who is said to be in Richmond, Va., has made application for the place made vacant by the resignation of W. Calvin Chase.

Col-Bart accompanied by Mr. Smith Wormly called to see the Commissioners Wednesday and asked for Mr. Obase's place. Up to date no colored man has been found competent to fill it.

NO NEGRO COMPETENT TO FILL IT.

The colored democrats so called, after the inauguration of Mr. Cleveland applied for our position as food inspector the only colored appointee in the Health department. All kinds of representations were made not only by our enemies but, by white and colored republicans who failed to defeat us in the last contest.

Simon Wolf, the Jew, who was elected by our friends, we understand made certain false and malicious statements to the commissioners. He was not out candidate from the start, but after he had agreed through one of his friends to pay for his election he was elected, but failed to reach his emulsion to be placed on the committee and afterwards declared that he was done with the republican party. Men who want honors must pay for them, the Jew Wolf not excepted. Our resignation has been accepted and as a matter of fact we have no tears to shed. Our record in the Health department is equal to any. Out of 19 cases in the police court, we lost one. We prosecuted more than all the inspectors combined, which the records of that department will show.

Much to the chagrin and regret of the colored democrats and colored republicans who wanted the place, not one was competent to fill the place, again our foes are left to die in grief.

THE NEGRO AS A PHYSICIAN.

Bishop Arnett in his address in Chicago, Sept. 22, among other things speaking of the colored physician said:

The doctor is one of the necessary and one of the indispensable members of a community. The healing art is one of the most important of professions. It is so intimately connected with life and death; health and sickness, that a skilful physician is a blessing to his fellow-men.

Everybody is interested in his success. The happiness of homes, the success of enterprises, the prosperity of the community depend upon the health of its inhabitants. When the negro assumed the responsibilities of freemen, we had no physician of our own; we had to depend on others to care for our sick and to relieve our ills. But since that day our young men have entered college, have graduated with honor and now are practicing with eminent success.

We have physicians who are not only practitioners, but are eminent as surgeons and oculists. Among the many who have distinguished themselves for learning and skill are: Drs. Purvis, Cook, Francis and Powell of Washington city; Dr. Ray, of Brooklyn; Dr. Thompson, of New York; Dr. Barnes, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Dr. Buckner, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. D. H. Williams, the founder of Provident Hospital and Training School, of Chicago, and one of the surgeons of the World's Fair. Dr. Boyd, of Nashville, and many others whose names fail me to mention.

The following figures will give some idea as to the number of colored physicians of the United States of thirty years of freedom, for when freedom came we had only Dr. Delaney and one or two others.

The Mahay College has graduated in 1891 132 physicians.

Howard University, 1891, graduated being 112 colored and 216 whites.

The Leonard Medical School in 1891, had graduated 30 students and had 53 on the way.

The Louisville National Medical College has graduated 11 persons and had an enrollment of 23.

The New Orleans University graduated 4 in 1892, and a large number have graduated from Ann Arbor, and Chicago and other places.

There are a large number of dentists in the country, and pharmacists. The number of young men is increasing in those professions.

THEY SAY.

Too much stock on the market will not take well in this city.

The American will declare dividend soon.

It will be bad credit and no paid printers.

The people need a live paper and one that can withstand the panic.

Too much stock will not suit the American people.

When you look for a thing you will never be disappointed when it comes.

Be true to your principles.

Read the BEE if you want a live paper.

The only paper in the city that meets the requirements of the people.

Great men will do great deeds.

It is the opinion of many that Astwood and Taylor will be confirmed.

Mr. Charles R. Douglass has on his war paint.

War paint and a hatchet after scare people.

Astwood says that he is not scared.

Taylor feels sanguine.

Republicans in office must not expect to fare as well as democrats under the former administration.

People are often disappointed by future anticipations.

Always live in hope for a better day.

When we help enterprise we shall help those that defend us and not those that offend us.

Be kind to your friends if can find them out.

The reformation of a man is impossible after a certain age.

He may reform for a while, but his old habits he is bound to indulge in occasionally.

Married men should associate with married women to a certain extent only.

Happy homes are often destroyed by just such association.

Immorality is seemingly in the lead.

Corrupt women seem to marry better men than honest women.

When a person swears to anything put it down as a falsehood.

Will an honest man associate with a person who is an enemy to his best friend and only confidant?

Echo answers no.

It is a very poor mill that never turns.

All kinds of job work done at this office at the lowest prices.

Wedding invitations a specialty.

We often misjudge those who are honest.

One's honesty is often demonstrated by his acts and deeds.

Don't deceive yourselves by accusing those of wrong in whom you have confided.

We often admire others because they seem to be true to those with whom they associate.

We often become dissatisfied with those who are true and honest.

The creditors got the best of the American stock last week.

The western adventurer had better return to his home.

His oily tongue will not convince the people of this city.

Deeds that are made are often easily broken.

What can we hope to gain by treachery?

The BEE is the people's paper and will succeed.

Live in hope for better days.

Colored democrats are getting dissatisfied.

Some people will not let well enough alone.

Lawyer R. S. Smith has hung out his shingle.

Rueben knows how to earn money.

The BEE has no favors to ask.

It has lived 12 years through deception and opposition.

Don't be alarmed when you hear a gun shoot off.

Sometimes it is all smoke.

Some guns are like some dogs.

They make a loud noise.

Some dogs are like some adventurers.

Dangerous to trust.

The most harmless dog is the poodle.

Read the BEE and be happy.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Washington, October 12, 1883.

Ordered:

That the resignation of William Calvin Chase and E. Fitzgerald inspectors in the Health office, are hereby accepted, to take effect the 1st inst., and that leave of absence be granted said Chase and Fitzgerald until that date.

That E. W. Whitaker and Thomas Cavanaugh are hereby appointed sanitary inspectors in the Health Office, vice Chase and Fitzgerald, resigned; appointments to take effect November 1, prox.

Official copy furnished Wm. Calvin Chase

By order:

Wm. Tindall

Secretary

WOMEN OF DISTINCTION'

This is a new book, a copy of which has been presented to the editor of the BEE. L. A. Scruggs, A. M. D. through that eminent and well known lady writer of this city, Madame Rosetta E. Lawson.

The book is a history of distinguished women of the race. There is no book that should occupy a higher place in the estimation of the race than this one.

Books have been written about men of mark by distinguished writers, but, none have thought enough of the women of the race to give them an honorable mention. Prof. Scruggs, unlike many great writers, has found women of distinction and has written a book of them containing 382 pages.

Don't fail to get a copy of Madame Lawson, No. 2011 Vt. Ave. N. W.

The missionaries in Hawaii are for the good native Hawaiians a calamity worse than the leprosy. We know that is true and we the eight million of free colored Americans will see that no wrong will be done to our brothers of Hawaii now and in the future.

Long live Hawaii.

lots in the District $75.00

EDAST EAEDOO D.

D. C.

Until July 1st '93 I will sell lots in E. Deawood D. C. at the vry low price of $75 Each,

in terms of $10 down and $5 per month and in the event of the death of the purchaser before the full price is paid, I will accept the payments so made as full payment of the price and will make a like conveyance of the lot to the purchaser's heirs or assigns.

For details apply to

E. M. Pine,

1320 F St. N. W.

Telephone 1727. Aug. 12th.

J. H. Dabney & Burke

BRANCH BUSINESS HOUSE

1409 28th street, Georgetown, D. C.

Practical Embalmer and First Class

FUNERAL DIRECTOR.

All work guaranteed and order promptly filled.

TELEPHONE 1727.

EDAST EAEDOO D.

W. CALVIN CHASE, EDITOR.

1118 14th street, Washington D. C.

EDUCATION

EDUCATION

Turing School

female nurses.

REGULAR apply

G. PURVIS

Freedmen's Hospital

Medical, Dental and Pharmacy

Department of Howard University.

WINTER SESSION OPE OCTOBER 2.

(Continues six months.)

Tuition in each Department $150 per term open to both sexes.

Term advantages for regular students.

C. B. PURVIS, MD.,

1118 14th street, Washington D. C.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEFS.

The strike of longshoremen has collapsed after a fifteen fight of ten days.

The Republican State convention has been called to meet at Syracuse on October 10.

Since the first of August forty-eight suspended national banks have resumed business.

The total net receipts of gold in New York from Europe in the past six weeks have been $34,578,354.

The great Brooklyn Futurity race at

Sheepshead Bay was won by Donable who captured $49,715 in stakes.

A Chinese mob near Mien Yang looted a Catholic chapel and destroyed houses of several native converts.

R. D. Wrenn won the tennis championship of the United States at New port. The winner is a Harvard man.

The English Admiralty has decided

HE BEE

AUTHORIZED AGENTS
EAST WASHINGTON.
W. Fowler, 318 3rd S. E.

Estimates for advertising furnished on application. Objectionable advertisements will not be inserted at any price. All remittances should be made by draft, postal money order, or cashier's check. Money forwarded in any way, is at the sender's risk. In sending money the amount and what it is for should be distinctly stated.

All letters, etc., should be addressed to BEE PUBLISHING CO., Washington, D. C.

PUBLISHED EVERY SATURDAY AT
1109 1ST. N. W., WASH. D. C.

WHERE THE BEE CAN BE HAD

Prof. J. F. Fowler, 318 3rd street, s. e.
J. H. Beiter, Druggist, corner 18th and M street, north west.
Philadelphia House, 348 Penn, Ave., n. w.
W. W. Jackson, 224 4th street, n. w.
Moore, as no. 305 4th street, n. w.
J. P. Stewart, 332 Pennsylvania Ave., n. w.

NEW YORK CITY.

D. A. Green, 420, 5th Ave.

BOSTON, MASS.

W. Reed, 93½ Cambridge St.

ALEXANDRIA VIRGINIA.

W. A. Carter, 313 Wilkes street.

SATURDAY, OCTO. 14th, 1893:

Locals.

FOR SALE.

Rare bargains in lots.
Reduced prices to suit the times.
Five dollars cash and $5. dollars monthly without interest.

Deanwood, D. C.

K street, N. E., extended.

Your choice for $180.
Special inducements to cash buyers.
Conveyance to inspect lots free of expense.

Call to office for plat and full particulars.

A. S. CAYWOOD,

939 9th St. N. W.

The Annual Bazaar given by the J. M. Townsend and the Summer Industrial Club and friends of the Mt. Pisgah Church cor. 10th and R sts. N. W. Monday and Tuesday evening was a grand affair.

WANT TO BE FOOD INSPECTOR.

Lem Bailey called on the District Commissioner last Wednesday and said that he represented the representative people of Washington who wanted Mr. Smith Wormley appointed food inspector. Col. Parker looked at him and smiled. Mr. Bailey was soon made aware that no colored man was found competent to fill the place.

The colored democrats got left on the food inspection.

DEATH OF J. W. MENARD

Hon. J. Willis Menard died Sunday evening last at his residence 1526 eleventh street, and his funeral took place Wednesday at the 15th street Presbyterian church. Mr. Menard was born April 3, 1838, at Kaskaskia, Ill., was hospitalized at Washington in 1863 was elected to the Fortieth Congress from Louisiana, but through some technicality was not allowed to take his seat; and member of the Florida legislature in 1872; was clerk in Census office at time of death. He leaves a widow, a son, and two daughters.

FASHION NOTES.

Fur is always in demand. A very smart wrap consists of three small capes of black velvet each outlined in gold.

A dainty little evening bonnet is of pale pink with three rosettes of white satin ribbon.

Sleeves are falling lower. They are still full but they no longer stand high.

A pretty hat is a wood-colored felt with a broad brim curling, and rather low crown trimmed in rose colored ribbon and ostrich tips.

Scarfs and fuchus are more popular now for wear with empire gowns than they have been at any time.

Hair dressers who invent styles claim that next season will see all of us wearing our hair in little curls pinned closely to the head.

The wattle plait is very fashionable but unless it is properly arranged it is apt to give rather a dowdy look to another wise smart costume.

Although nature has never produced a black flower the milliner is this season exhibiting black roses framed in the natural foliage.

Buttons will be used and shown on the front of bodies than they have for many years.

Accordion plaited chiffon waists in black are stylish to wear with black or colored skirts.

Bisque pieces to wear with a round waist is becoming fashionable.

A beautiful fall costume is made of tweed in two tones of brown trimmed with rows of braid in graduated widths.

AMONG THE HINDU POOR.

Multitudes of Aborigines, Almost Unclothed, Living in Wretched Buildings.

Measured by any standard of actual possessions, says a writer in the Pauline Mission Message, the aboriginal and unmixed Hindu population is poor indeed. It has often been a wonder indeed that the laboring classes among Hindus build so poorly, and one is not less surprised to see the comparatively superior houses the Kol takes the pains to build. A man can rarely stand in a poor Hindu's one to three rupee house, he nearly always can comfortably do so in the Kol's more spacious better-roofed home. But the house is about all. Seldom do brass cooking vessels appear in the hands of the Kol. The most common earthenware cheap, easily broken and quickly replaced, do them. Better utensils are seen among even the poor Hindus. Here and there are rocks, but a few pugs, perhaps a goat or two, a dog, and one or two genuine "scalping" pigs make up a lot of estate. In the west the men dress better than in Bastar. The women go with the upper body only imperfectly covered by a cloth that covers the lower body, one end of which is thrown up over one shoulder from the front.

In the villages of Bastar we find multitudes with no more than a piece of cloth three feet by nine inches, a very scant covering for the human frame. Our hearts have been touched with pity many a time as men, women and children have come out to hear us preach, sing and pray. It is noticeable that the natural modesty of mankind is not wholly lost even among the most barbarous tribes, or under the vilest of heathen systems. We first thought such nudity would prove the depravity of the people. But to our surprise we did not find any more immorality among the aborigines than the Hindu. Children up to eight or ten years are usually naked. Among the Hindus the marriage relation is very lightly esteemed. The Kol, on the other hand, may polygamy, but gen erally he has but one wife.

Notwithstanding the apparent poverty of the aborigines among whom we have travelled, they seem remarkably happy. Almost every night you hear the village song and the tom-tom. This is to amuse themselves and frighten away the wild beasts that abound about them and are the plague of their stock pens. Whatever else the people have or have not, they get and use tobacco. They grow it and its use by both sexes is everywhere seen. Even little children indulge in the poison. Drinking under the British "out-still system" is fearfully prevalent along the Godavari, and drunkenness is spreading greatly. That vicinity, up to recent date, the people of Bastar have been comparatively free from this vice. But the British census system is set up, and the摩摩 tree, the flower of which yields liquor, abounds.

Five thousand people meet in Jagdapur every Sunday market day. These weekly bazars afford a fine opportunity for evangelizing. Much of the grain carrying is done on the heads of women, or on men's shoulders.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the Hindu small-pox goddess, but do this in the open air. Every high hill is deemed sacred, and it is difficult to get one of these people to ascend one of the higher hills. They have no idols so-called.

The aborigines wears plenty of jewelry. Men put on most of it. We frequently see from ten to one hundred different articles of ornament. Naked they may be, but they must have jewelry. We have seen thirty-eight rings in a man's two ears on a feast day.

The great respect apparently shown to woman among the aborigines is striking. She seems to be reckoned fairly man's equal. This greatly simplifies missionary work among them. Our preachers can at the same time with equal facility reach both men and women.

At Yellandha three-fifths of all who hear our preachers are women. The aborigines either in the west or east builds no temple to his gods. These people revere gods they esteem to dwell in the hills. They worship the five brother kings, of whom Beem Der and Dharma Rai are the favorites. They sacrifice to appease the

